The declaration of Senator Daulett

in Washington a few days ago to the effect that he has not yet become "Bryainteed" is the subject of much discussion here. Politticians and public men from various sections of the State are taiking a good deal on the subject, and frankness compels the statement that they are not all of one mind and faith. The mass of the Virginia Democracy appears to be formed and the whole the public the statement that they are not all of one mind and faith. The mass of the Virginia Democracy appears to be formed and the statement that they are not all of one mind and faith. The mass of the Virginia Democracy appears to be formed and the statement that they are not all of one mind and faith. The mass of the Virginia Democracy appears to be formed to the State convertion, and there have not been emough instructions or expressions concerning their probable views to indicate anything which could be called at fail transgible.

SPOTSYLVANIA. VA., April 21.—A tremendous forest fire swept over a large area of country in what is known as the "Catherine Furnace" land, containing several thousand acres, and destroyed a large amount of timber, excelsior wood lumber and cord wood. It was thought at one time that Wakeman's manufacturing mills were burned but nothing definite as to this has been ascertained.

This is the same section where Stonewall Jackson made his great flank movement at Chancellorsville in 1862 and General Grant manoeuvred on in 1864, and is known as the Wilderness
